Car fatalities ruled accidental

EDWARDSVILLE — The death of a 64-year-old Granite City woman last month was ruled accidental by a jury following a coroner's inquest yesterday.

Elizabeth L. Mejaski was killed and her son, Paul, 32, was seriously injured when they were struck by a car Feb. 10 as they crossed Nameoki Road at Jill Avenue.

The driver of the vehicle, Vance R. Burns, 17, of the 2000 block of Edwardsville Road, Madison, did not attend the inquest, nor did a witness, George Taylor, Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said.

Joseph Carino of Granite City did not witness the accident but testified that he had been in front of Burns' 1979 Ford Granada as it left the lot from Schnuck's Supermarket.

Carino said Burns pulled out ahead of Carino and headed south on Nameoki Road, where Burns encountered a brown auto. Carino testified that the two drivers "looked like they knew each other."

Carino said the cars pulled away very fast from the traffic light at Nameoki and Johnson roads as if they were racing.

When the accident occurred, Carino said he (Carino) was still halfway between Johnson Road and the Jill light.

Carino said he stopped at the scene, where Burns had left his car. "He (Burns) was saying, 'These people jumped in front of me. I don't know where they came from,'" Carino testified.

Carino said that while at the scene, he accused Burns of racing but Burns denied that he was racing.

Carino testified that he did not see what the traffic signal was at the time of the accident.

Granite City police arrived at the scene at 10:08 p.m., minutes after the accident. A report prepared by Officer Michael A. Leisner, who was not present at the inquest, was read by Burke.

Leisner's report said that the Burns auto and an unidentified brown, four-door Malibu that left the scene appeared to be racing. The report further stated that the pedestrians were crossing at the intersection against the signal.

In the report, Burns was quoted as stating that he applied his brakes and his car slid into both victims.

The jury also ruled the Feb. 12 death of Michael P. Kawula, 39, as accidental.

Kawula's body was found at 9 a.m. Feb. 13 inside a water-filled 1983 Buick Skylark. The car had apparently left the exit ramp of Illinois 200 North from eastbound Interstate 270, flipped upside down and landed in a drainage culvert.

A West Chain of Rocks Road resident came upon the car shortly after the accident, but did not report it. Illinois State Trooper Marty Milkovich testified.

Death was attributed to drowning due to submersion in water. Toxicology reports showed the blood alcohol level was .162, making him "legally intoxicated at the time of the accident," Coroner Burke said.

Free speech briefly wins victory here

GRANITE CITY — It was a fleeting victory at best.

John Petish Sr. filed a request to address the city council for 60 minutes, modified to 10 minutes, Tuesday night on "Questions, Answers and Commentary." Township Senior Citizen Affairs.

But only moments after he began to talk, at least three aldermen called Petish out-of-order and Mayor Von Dee Cruse ordered Petish to sit down.

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk said Petish had a history of long, out-of-order tirades before the council on the same subject. He had suggested Petish go speak to the Senior Citizen Committee, scheduled to meet this week, before bringing the matter up before the City Council.

To do otherwise, Fisk said, could only serve the purpose of inciting people. He said freedom of speech did not extend to yelling fire in a crowded theater.

Fisk voted against allowing Petish to address the council.

The other aldermen, after rather lengthy discussion, voted to let Petish speak for five minutes only as long as he was not out of order.

Petish thanked the aldermen for restoring his constitutional rights. Then he suggested Fisk would be more comfortable sitting around in his lab coat, he said. He was subsequently asked to sit down.

Prior to the meeting, Petish, who calls himself a "concerned citizen," said the documentation he was going to talk about had not arrived and he wasn't going to speak.

HERE'S PIE IN YOUR EYE: Dick Seller of Granite City Steel appears to relish his role as pie thrower as he doctors the face of restaurateur Dick Ervay during the March 16 "Great Pie in the Eye" fund-raiser for the Multiple Sclerosis Society. The event was held at Ervay's Nite Spot on Pontoon Road. Several elected officials and candidates on the April 4 ballot served as pie eaters. Ervay plans other events, including a March 22 auction, to help meet the goal of $25,000. Those who would like to donate items for the auction should call Ervay's manager Gary Barron at 878-3301. Other weekend activities will be held through May 1.

Local tax preparers bracing for big blitz

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — It's springtime, when everyone's fancy turns to thoughts of ... tax returns?

"I'm swamped, pal," said Mike Presson, proprietor of Presson Tax Service, 4087 Pontoon Road. He said he's working about 80 hours a week already.

From comments by several area tax preparers, if Presson thinks he's swamped now, just wait a couple of weeks. Even he knows it.

"Everybody procrastinates," Presson said. He figures if the spring-like weather of last week holds steady, people will wait even longer to bring in their tax returns for preparation.

"They'll really wait till the last minute now," he said.

Presson and others say they expect the big blitz about April 1.

Larry Bilbrey, who operates Bilbrey's Tax Service, 2301 Dwight Drive, as well as doing work for the Gilchoff and Fisk Maers agencies, said he is "buried" in tax returns for businesses and landlords.

"But Bilbrey said returns for individuals are lagging a little behind the totals to this date from the last few years. 'I think there are a lot of them still out there," he said.

The Internal Revenue Service in its beneficence has given humble taxpayers an extra couple of days to get tax returns in this year. Actually, the calendar, not the IRS, gets the credit. Because the usual deadline of April 15 does not fall on a working day, returns needn't be postmarked until midnight on April 17.

Bilbrey urged people to get their returns done and mailed early. "The sooner they get them filed, the sooner they'll get their money back."

At H&R Block, 1409 21st St., tax preparer Joyce Tanksley said the usual rush during the last two weeks of February lasted an extra week this year.

"It's tapering off right now," Tanksley said, "but it will start again on about April 1."

And the week after that? "Look out!" she said.

One tax preparer who's not worried is Elvira Thurber. Tax changes lately have made tax preparation a big headache," she said, so she has limited her practice to "a few friends."

You're turning the rest down, Elvira? "Yes!" she said, and giggled.

At least somebody finds tax time amusing.

VOLUNTEERS for the American Association of Retired Persons continue their free tax preparation service at the Granite City Moose Lodge, 19th and Benton streets. Granite City, said AARP's service continues each Tuesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. until April 14.

Labor endorses 31, but not a GC mayor

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Most incumbent candidates in the April 4 election have received endorsements from organized labor.

An exception is Granite City's three-way mayoral race, where the incumbent is said to have led the voting but no endorsement was given.

Also absent from the Labor Council's endorsement list are incumbent 4th Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak and 6th Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker, both of Granite City. Pontoon Beach Trustees Robert Abel and Robert Vincent along with other candidates on their ticket likewise were not endorsed.

Affiliated local union presidents and official delegates to the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council, AFL-CIO, voted the endorsements March 15 after hearing recommendations of the council's Political Screening Committee.

Due to the lack of a two-thirds majority vote of the delegates, the council abided by the bylaws and took a neutral stand in the mayoral race in Granite City, said Roger Hoover, chairman of the Tri-City Council.

"I think on the record the lack of endorsement reflects exactly the sentiment in Granite City toward the mayoral race," Hoover said Wednesday.

Incumbent Mayor Von Dee Cruse is opposed by city Street Superintendent Mac Warfield and by Archie Lupardus in the

Friend accused in death

TAMPA BAY, FLA. — They were two longtime friends from the city of Venice. But tragedy ended that friendship. Today, one of them is dead of stab wounds to the abdomen, and the other stands accused of the murder.

Jerry Wayne Coggins, 41, was stabbed to death Tuesday night by his friend, Curtis E. DuBoise, 41, in a neighbor dispute near Tampa Bay, Fla., said Hillsborough County Sheriff's public information officer Jack Espinoza.

Coggins, 41, lived at 12713 Cambridge in an unincorporated

Two hurt on State Street

Two persons sustained injuries in a three-vehicle accident March 10.

Arthur W. Atkins, 31, of the 1700 block of Delmar Avenue suffered an injury when his car entered State Street from 18th Street and was involved in a collision with a northbound pickup truck operated by Ronald P. Patterson, 39, of Mercer Drive.

The impact spun Atkins' auto around and against the pickup truck of Rand Edward Chart, 54, of Collinsville, who had halted at a stop sign on 16th Street facing west.

A passenger in the car, Cindy Robertson, 31, of the 2300 block of Bryan Avenue also sustained an injury.

Carolyn Walsh of the 2400 block of State Street reported March 10 she inadvertently left her black leather purse in a shopping cart after putting her groceries in a car in the parking area at National Food store, 3030 Madison Ave.

After driving several blocks from the store, Walsh returned but was unable to find the purse. Inside it were a garage door opener and a credit card.

Two hurt at 20th Street

Michael W. Koe, 33, of Cahokia and a passenger in his auto, Gerri V. Koe, 37, of Cahokia were hurt at 12:30 a.m. March 11 when their car was struck from the rear by a pickup truck operated by Gary W. Rolens, 34, of Edwardsville. Rolens said the vehicle slid on wet pavement.

Koe's car was stopped at Edwardsville Road traffic lights waiting for a left turn arrow into 20th Street. Both vehicles were damaged.

Criminal damage charged

Ronald Keith Galbraith, 32, of the 1900 block of Spring Avenue was charged with criminal damage to an auto and illegal transportation of alcohol March 10.

The charges related to a report made by David R. McGuire of Georgetown Drive who told police the driver of a westbound vehicle which passed his car in the 3700 block of Pontoon Road allegedly threw a beer bottle. The bottle struck the windshield of McGuire's 1989 car and caused a crack.

An officer halted the suspect's vehicle at Wabash and Spring avenues and Galbraith was charged. He posted $102 bail and was released.

Burglar takes necklace

A door was forced open at the home of Louise J. Wade in the 3000 block of Myrtle Avenue, where the intruder ransacked bedrooms, overturned a television, punched a hole in the kitchen wall and searched a briefcase March 11. Inside it were $100, a diamond necklace valued at $700.

Traffic warrant served

Jackie Lee Tate, 25, of the 100 block of Kirkpatrick Homes went to police headquarters March 10 and was served a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while his driver license was suspended. He posted $102 bail and was released.

Stereo, speakers gone

Phyllis Sanders of the 1300 block of Meridian Street reported March 15 an AM/FM car stereo and two speakers were stolen from her car while it was parked outside her residence.

Granite City

Red 1988 Nova stolen

Jerry Sutt of St. Charles, Mo., reported March 10 that he parked his red 1988 Chevrolet Nova in the 1700 block of Chestnut Street the previous night and patronized a nearby tavern, going home with some friends from there. Sutt had his keys with him, but when he returned to get the car, it was gone.

Restaurant disturbance

Robert Harold Pearman, 39, of the 2100 block of Beckwith Avenue, Madison, was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting a peace officer at 10:15 p.m. March 9 at McDonald's Restaurant in the 2000 block of Madison Avenue.

Responding to a disturbance at the restaurant, Patrolman N.J. Tapp Jr. was told by the manager that Pearman had asked for food but wanted it without paying, saying he had paid for food at a McDonald's in St. Louis and was told by police at that location to pick up the food in Granite City.

Pearman was asked to leave but began yelling at the officer and was advised to leave or be arrested, a report said. The suspect left the building and began screaming and pointing his finger at the officer, it was contended.

After being told he was under arrest, Pearman allegedly struggled with Tapp and kicked the officer in the right shin. Tapp was assisted in making the arrest by a retired police officer who was in the restaurant.

In an officer's appearance March 10, Pearman pleaded guilty to the disorderly conduct charge and was fined $50.

He pleaded innocent to resisting arrest and was released on a $1,000 recognizance bond pending a hearing.

Transferred to county

Brenda Elaine Sanders, 34, of Garesche Homes, Madison, was arrested March 8 at the Madison Police Station on a Granite City warrant alleging deceptive practice. After a March 10 court appearance, she was transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Apartment burglarized

A burglar broke a door frame at the apartment of Robert E. Betts in the 2400 block of Grand Avenue and stole a video cassette recorder, three cassette tapes and a 35mm camera, it was reported March 10.

Ford Ranger recovered

A 1983 Ford Ranger pickup truck stolen Feb. 19 from Clarence A. Norman of the 2400 block of Rodney Drive was recovered March 9 in Alorton, local police were informed by St. Clair County authorities.

A woman was driving and two men were in the vehicle when the truck was stopped at 49th Street and Old Missouri Road in Alorton. The owner was notified and an investigation is continuing.

1979 Cadillac returned

A 1979 Fleetwood Cadillac was stolen from McCoy's Auto Sales in the 1000 block of Madison Avenue, it was reported March 13 by Michael J. Bowling.

Bowling said a man took the car for a test drive about 1 p.m. March 13 and brought the car back, saying he wanted to buy the vehicle and left to get the money from a bank.

While Bowling was away from the lot, Michael Duckworth, an employee, received a phone call from a man identifying himself as a bank officer; the caller said the money for the car was approved.

The caller suggested the employee allow the prospective buyer to take the car to an insurance office in Fairview Heights. The bank would have the money ready when the man returned, the caller said.

The man left with the Cadillac and had not returned that afternoon, Bowling reported. A verifying call made to the bank revealed the bank officer who supposedly made the call to McCoy's had not worked that day and no one at the bank was aware of arrangements for such a loan.

The prospective buyer then called Bowling about 3:30 p.m. the same day, saying he had been delayed. However, the man never did return with the car, Bowling informed police at 5:15 p.m. March 13.

On March 15, the man and car were seen in Madison. The car was returned to McCoy's and police took the man into custody, pending investigation.

It was learned later the man apparently intended to buy the car, an officer said. No charges were filed and he was released.

Men reported near cars

Police checked the area of St. Elizabeth School, 2300 Pontoon Road, at 9:45 p.m. March 15 after receiving a report that two men between 18 and 20 years old were going through parked cars.

Both men were about 5 feet 9 inches tall; one man was wearing a tan coat and the other a dark jacket.

James M. Patterson of the 2700 block of Whipperwill Lane, whose auto was parked next to the school on the Pontoon Road side, reported his car had been searched and three rugby shirts were stolen.

Transferred to county

Victor Lamore Price, 22, of the 300 block of Canal Street, Brooklyn, was transferred from the Pontoon Beach Police Station to Granite City police headquarters March 14 on a Granite City warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while his license was suspended. Price appeared before a judge in the Granite City court March 15 and he was transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Two charged with burglary

MADISON — Two Madison men were charged with burglary after a patrolman working a radar detail stopped a car and questioned the occupants about a television in the back seat.

Information was issued March 13 by Circuit Judge George J. Moran, charging Joseph Steven Thomas, 20, and Alan Steven Hozian, 17, both of the 200 block of Madison Avenue, each with one count of burglary and one count of felony theft.

Bond for Thomas was set at $20,000 and Hozian's bond was $7,500. Both were transferred March 14 to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Patrolman R.S. Sexton stopped the car in the 1300 block of Madison Avenue at 12:55 p.m. March 11. The driver was not implicated in other events and was later released.

Thomas, a passenger, was questioned about a color television in the back seat and an AM/FM dual cassette boom box radio, both in the car.

About 3 p.m. March 11, officers went to an open field south of an alley in the 2000 block of Fourth Street where several stripped parts of a motorcycle, including turn signals, tachometer, speedometer, undercarriage, a chrome front fork section and a fender were recovered.

At a second location, south of HuntCo Steel and east of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad service road, a rearview mirror, amber turn signal, rear fender and taillight and a section of a motorcycle frame were found.

Police alleged the items came from a 1973 Honda motorcycle valued at $500 which had been taken in a garage burglary reported March 10 at the home of Paul and Della Youngbauer in the 1500 block of Second Street.

A burglary also was suspected at the dwelling where the garage was located. The residence was being renovated by the owner, Chester McManaway, with the residents staying with relatives until the work was finished, authorities said.

Brenda Lindsey reported missing from the Second Street residence were an AM/FM stereo cassette radio owned by Charles Hamilton of the 1600 block of Third Street and a 19-inch Zenith television.

Both the radio and TV found in the car in which Thomas was a passenger allegedly were identified as being taken from the Second Street address.

Youngbauer said the stripped motorcycle parts appeared to be from a Honda. He later identified other parts of the machine as his.

A resident of the 1500 block of Second Street reported seeing two men pushing a motorcycle in the alley.

Officers went to the home of Thomas, who allowed them to enter and consented to a search, police said.

A motorcycle engine, twin tailpipes and other parts of a motorcycle allegedly were recovered and Thomas was arrested.

Hozian was taken into custody at Second Street and Madison Avenue and was charged.

Burglar ransacks bedroom

Venice

Battery by man alleged

Carolyn Baker of the 400 block of Bissell Street reported March 13 that, while she was visiting at the home of a woman friend in the 500 block of Jefferson Street on March 11, a man came to the residence wanting the key to Baker's apartment.

When she refused, he began arguing, struck her several times and also pulled her hair, she alleged.

The same man had removed some property from her apartment on March 4, she said.

Money, stamps missing

Ernestine Johnson of the 400 block of Weaver Street discovered her purse was missing from a bedroom and later found it under a couch cushion in the living room, she reported March 15. Missing from the purse were $229 cash and $317 worth of food stamps.

St. Louis man charged

Keith L. Owens, 23, of St. Louis was charged with two counts of battery following a March 10 incident at a residence in the 1200 block of Oriole Street.

While Owens was visiting at the home, he began arguing with Mary Ford and allegedly struck her in the stomach with his fist.

Joann Sharp tried to assist Ford and alleged she was struck in the face by Owens. The blow caused a one-inch cut on her forehead, a report said.

Owens fled from the dwelling and was arrested at an address in the Venice Homes.

Footprints left on door

A burglar used his feet, leaving his footprints behind, in forcing open the front door at the home of James Riddle in the 400 block of Weaver Street, it was reported March 11. A bedroom, closet and furniture drawers were ransacked and the intruder stole an AM/FM clock radio.

Venice Township has 3 races, 3 no-contests

By Andy Slering
Staff writer

VENICE TOWNSHIP — There are three races in the township election: supervisor, tax collector and trustee positions (five seeking four posts). Three men are vying for the position of township supervisor; the incumbent, longtime supervisor Christ Pashoff, has decided not to seek reelection. Instead, he is running for trustee.

Trustee Richard "Popeye" Paterson is one of the three seeking Pashoff's old job. The other two are Madison Alderman Andy Economy and businessman Jim Riskovsky.

Two are vying for tax collector: incumbent C.A. "Casey" Krakowiecki and Edmund Warchol.

Five are running for four trustee slots: Pashoff and retired school teacher Joe Asperger, and incumbents Benjamin Honorable, "Cadillac" John Piechocinski and Joe Willie Young Sr.

The incumbent highway commissioner, Eddie Lee Salmond, is unopposed, as are the incumbent assessor, Babette Mosby, and the incumbent town clerk, Bill McGarrahan.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR
Andy Economy, Economy, 43, of 838 Alton Ave., Madison, is the proprietor of A. & J. Body & Towing Service in Madison. A lifelong resident of the township, Economy has a wife and one daughter.

He already wears a number of political hats: First Ward alderman in Madison, precinct committeeman and president of the Madison Volunteer Fire Company. He says his political and business experience makes him uniquely qualified for the supervisor's slot.

Economy has the backing of the current township supervisor, Christ Pashoff, and Madison mayoral candidate Ron Grzywacz.

Economy sees the supervisor as having three possibilities: "to oversee general assistance and welfare; to direct the distribution of federal surplus commodities; and to coordinate programs for senior citizens."

Economy says talk of starting other programs (such as an anti-drug program proposed by rival Jim Riskovsky) is unrealistic. "The township doesn't have enough money to supply the programs they have now, much less take on anything more," he said. "The drug problem is a very serious issue," Economy said, "but it can't be dealt with through the township. A drug program should be the responsibility of either the school system or the city."

"Our senior citizens are in dire need, and there are few enough programs for them. The money is not available to start anything else."

Rich Paterson, "Popeye" Paterson, 54, of 1607 Kennedy Drive, Madison, is a machinist at Gebco Machine Co. A lifelong resident of the area, he has a wife, one daughter and one son.

Paterson points to his 12 years as a township trustee as equipping him to be supervisor. He is endorsed by the mayors and police chiefs of both Madison and Venice, and by the Venice Township People's Party.

Says Paterson: "The main issue is taking care of general assistance and keeping the continuity of what Christ (Pashoff) has going. Planning things for the elderly is hard since federal revenue sharing was cut off. Money is awful tight."

"It's very important that the supervisor work with the mayors. If you don't work together, if everybody's fighting, then you don't get anything done."

Paterson says talk of starting new programs for senior citizens "sounds good, but you have to be realistic. I'd like to do a lot of things for a lot of people, but if the funds aren't there, you can't just print money."

He said he would like to see federal revenue sharing restored.

Jim Riskovsky, Riskovsky, 48, of 714 Iowa St., Madison, is the proprietor of Riskovsky's Automotive Engineering in Madison. A resident of the area for 48 years, he is a former precinct committeeman and former secretary of the Madison Parks and Recreation Board. He has a wife, two sons and a daughter.

Riskovsky is campaigning heavily on what he perceives as a need to fight drug abuse among children. He acknowledges that anti-drug programs are already in effect in high schools, but says such programs need to be put into effect for grade school students.

"By the time they're 13 or 14, they've already experimented," Riskovsky said.

He also has pledged to try and re-establish a program that supplied eyeglasses to senior citizens and low-income families. Says Riskovsky: "Low-income families and senior citizens will be my primary interest."

He also promises to fight higher taxes and utility rates, and blasts Paterson for allowing the township budget to be increased during his 12 years as a trustee.

Asked how he planned to finance his new programs, Riskovsky said he thought funds funneled to the cities of Madison and Venice should be kept for use by the township. "These funds should go to help needy families. The cities should carry their own load."

Riskovsky pledges to hold quarterly town meetings.

TAX COLLECTOR

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Many landlords never enter into a written lease with their tenants. They simply operate on an informal basis with both parties understanding the amount of rent which is to be paid. Sometimes a dispute arises between a landlord and tenant in these situations where there is no written lease. It then becomes important to understand the rights of the respective parties in these matters.

When there is no written lease for a definite term, Illinois law presumes that the parties are operating under a month to month tenancy. This means that the landlord can give the tenant 30 days written notice to leave the property. Likewise, the tenant can give the landlord the same notice of his intention to vacate the property. Neither is obligated for an extended period of time, and this can prove to be an advantage or disadvantage depending on the circumstances of the parties.

In one recent case, a tenant became dissatisfied with the condition of his apartment. There was no written lease, and he notified the landlord in writing that he would be leaving in ten days. This notice was provided on January 21 and the tenant was gone by February 1. The landlord sent him a bill due to the fact that he did not receive the requisite 30 day notice. The case wound up in Court, and the Judge assessed the tenant the additional rent.

In another case, a tenant without a written lease had lived in an apartment for more than two years. She had always been a model tenant, and she was never late with the rent. In the middle of winter, she received a 30 day written notice from the landlord to vacate the premises. She inquired as to whether the landlord needed a good reason to terminate her tenancy. With a month to month tenancy, the landlord can evict the tenant for any reason or for no reason at all as long as the proper notice is given.

It is apparent that there are certain disadvantages to the informal month to month tenancy. The tenant can be forced to leave with very little opportunity to make other arrangements, and the landlord likewise can find himself without a renter with only 30 days notice. On the other hand, many landlords and tenants like this informal arrangement because it gives them the freedom to remove themselves from an undesirable situation.

RE: Proposed Shoney's
Nameoki Road
Granite City, Illinois

Dear Mayor Cruse:

In regard to the above captioned development it is our intention at the present time to begin construction in early fall and be open before year end.

As you know we have experienced many setbacks since we began working on this project all of which were completely beyond your control. Our company's recapitalization in March 1988 and some major personnel changes in the St. Louis area are the main contributors to the delay.

Throughout the entire process your steadfast support and the support of all of Granite City for our project has been greatly appreciated. Without your help this project would have never gotten off the ground. I hope that the citizens of Granite City will not hold you personally responsible for our failure to follow through immediately with our plans as your commitment to the future of Granite City is something that should all be proud of. We are just as excited today as we were when we began our work about being a part of the Granite City Community.

Thank you again for your patience and support and best of luck in your re-election campaign.

Sincerely yours,

Granite City candidates see problems differently, propose different solutions

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Two large, well-financed campaign organizations and one man operating out of his home are opponents in the three-way race for mayor.

Incumbent Mayor Von Dee Cruse, 65, of 2442 Lynch Ave. and Street Superintendent Mac Warfield, 57, of 22 Devon Hill Lane both list many prominent local people as active supporters. Archie Lupardus, 48, of 2441 Edwards St. said his entire campaign staff consists of him, his wife and "one other guy."

Lupardus is a lifelong resident of Granite City and the owner of A1 Air Conditioning and Heating. He previously worked at Cohen's Food Market, General Steel, where he was a shop steward for the Steelworkers union, and the N & W Railroad.

He was a member of the 2nd Baptist Church in West Granite for 38 years and currently attends the Tri-City Park Tabernacle. He attended Granite City grade schools and high school and Belleville Area College.

He and his wife Julie have four children.

Never having held a public office, Lupardus said his qualification for the job is based in 1 Timothy 3 in the Bible.

"The Bible says if a man can manage his own household well, keeping his children under control with dignity, he is qualified to do anything," Lupardus said. "I have four children. One son's a dentist, one's a doctor, one's working at Prairie Farms and my daughter is in high school and a member of the National Honor Society."

Warfield is also a lifelong Granite City resident. He has been street superintendent since 1992. He previously worked for Granite City Steel for 32 years and served four years in the U.S. Navy during the Korean War. He attended Granite City schools.

Warfield is a former Madison County Democratic chairman and has served as a Democratic precinct committeeman and as alderman for the 6th Ward.

He and his wife Betty have no children.

"I have demonstrated time and time again that I have the knowledge and qualifications to restore quality of life to all the people in our city," Warfield said.

Also a lifelong resident of the city, Cruse has been mayor four years. Previously, he served as township assessor for 21 years and as an alderman for eight years. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II and was awarded the Bronze Star for heroic achievement in action.

Cruse attended Granite City schools and is a member of the Trinity Methodist Church. He is a member of the American Association of Retired Persons, Aime Shrine Temple, Scottish Rite, the American Legion, AMVETS, Elks Lodge 1063, Granite City Ambassadors, Masonic Lodge 835, Granite City Sports Hall of Fame, Old Six Mile Historical Society, St. Elizabeth Medical Center Advisory Board, the 361st Infantry Association, Township Officials of Illinois and the VFW and is treasurer of the Madison County Transit District.

He and his wife Lois have two children.

"Good things aren't bursting open in Granite City, but I think we're right on the verge," Cruse said. "Things are going to be booming in Granite City over the next year and I think I've played a part in it. I realize the part I didn't play also. But I think the mayor sets the tempo of city government and I hope I've set a tempo of progress."

All three candidates agree this year's election is a particularly dirty campaign, but say there are important issues being discussed.

Lupardus said his campaign consists of talking to people. He said he has a list of all the voters in Granite City and every day he will look up all the phone numbers for a couple of precincts. That evening he calls them all and talks to them. By election day, he said, he plans to have called every registered voter in the city.

"I don't know exactly what the mayor handles," Lupardus said. "But I know there's got to be some way for the city to help people." He said there are a lot of down-and-out people living in the city and that he wants to form committees that go into the community and find out what specific problems the people have. Then, he said, the city could figure out what it has to do to help them.

"We need to help people up, not kick them down. When a guy gets down he gets rebellious," Lupardus said. "If the city inspector comes out and demands he clean up or do something, then that makes him even more rebellious. So we need to find out what the problem is and if the city can help, not threaten to run him out of town or tear his house down."

Warfield said his honesty is his biggest asset. He said Cruse's four years in office have consisted of broken promises. Specifically, Warfield charges that Cruse changed his mind on the elimination of the city telephone tax, withdrew promised support of Warfield for Madison County Democratic chairman, reneged on the appointment of Jerry Krug to 5th Ward alderman and has done nothing visible to help the dying downtown district.

"I can't keep lying to the public that way," Warfield said. "It's wrong to do the public that way. That's not the way things are done."

Warfield said Cruse had led the petition drive to eliminate the telephone tax and that the drive had helped get Cruse elected. Then, Warfield said, Cruse had changed his mind and the elimination and even lobbied some of the aldermen to keep the tax.

Cruse said the only time he had a chance to vote on the tax he voted to eliminate it. He said the majority of the tax is a good thing for the campaign, but that now he is not so sure it was right. The majority of the tax is paid by commercial customers, he said, not individual citizens. At the moment it provides needed revenue, Cruse said, and it is very possible that, if ended, it would have to be replaced with another type of tax on the individual.

"If it came up again I have mixed emotions whether or not I would vote to eliminate it," Cruse said.

Warfield said Cruse promised to support him in the election for Democratic chairman at a meeting in Alton shortly after the 1985 election with "all the big politicians" and then, two days later, Warfield said, he found out Cruse had filed to run against him.

"When a guy tells you something like that, how can you have any faith in him?" Warfield asked. "He did that."

Cruse responded: "That's exactly what I did."

Cruse said that after the mayoral election he wanted to work with Warfield, that Warfield had his people on the city council and it made sense to get their support. Cruse said he and Warfield had a meeting to work things out and that Warfield indicated the price was half the appointments to city positions.

"From that point on I never trusted him," Cruse said. "I wanted to work with Warfield. But not as mayor and that's what he wanted."

Warfield said Cruse asked 5th Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey to lead a replacement for 5th Ward Alderman Jake Varadian, who was moving out of the city. Bailey

Warfield said, found Krug and Cruse agreed and told Bailey to introduce Krug to city officials as the new alderman. Then Warfield said, Cruse appointed Ralph Astorian.

"That would be so embarrassing," Warfield said. "How could you ever look that man in the eye again?"

Cruse said he was careful never to promise Krug anything, although he was seriously planning to appoint Krug.

"Then the next day Lloyd (Bailey) and Warfield took (Krug) to get petitions to run against Hollis Donaldson for precinct committeeman," Cruse said. "Hollis is a good friend who worked hard to get me elected. So I started looking for someone else to appoint."

Cruse said he is glad he appointed Astorian who, Cruse said, has been a very good alderman.

"Downtown is really the big issue," Warfield said. "I tell people to look at the downtown and see if it is any better than snow and I know I'd made a mistake. I don't know how (Lionel) Fortell got anything done with what was going on."

Warfield said he knew he had made some employees angry but that the street department is doing more and better work than before. He said a lot of the equipment is old and there are problems keeping it together. But, Warfield said, he has been getting the job done.

"I'm really proud of what I've done here," Warfield said.

Warfield said one of his problems was city engineers spending his money. He said the engineers put specifications on a contract and then keep bringing him change orders to sign. He said the work on Pump Station 11 on Maryville Road was bid at $30,000 and has, so far, cost the city $18,000.

Cruse said the change orders really bothered him, that he had change orders to sign. He said he would like to spend that much extra money, but that City Engineer Roger Hadley had documented them and explained four years ago."

Warfield said he hopes a Wal-Mart comes to the downtown area, but doubts the city has the financial resources to do it. He said the city has spent a lot of money on studies, but nothing concrete has happened for four years. Meanwhile, downtown is getting worse all the time, he said.

Cruse said he believes Wal-Mart will come to Granite City and that, since the bankers and developers believe it is financially possible, he has no reason to believe otherwise.

Warfield said Cruse is taking credit for the reopening of American Steel Foundries and the addition of a second continuous caster at Granite City Steel when "he knows a mayor can't tell them what to do. I couldn't as mayor, and he didn't."

Cruse said no one is naive enough to believe he personally brought either the reopening of the caster, but he said the city played a part in both by cooperating when asked, especially the assistance given by Perry Kellahan of the Wastewater Treatment Plant.

"I don't know that our efforts helped them make the decision," Cruse said. "But I know for sure that they didn't hurt."

Cruse said the biggest problem facing the city is the street department. "Just drive down the streets of the city," Cruse said. "Some places, only one block of a street has new pavement, or sidewalks, and in other places there is no street at all. It depends on how they voted."

Every decision he (Warfield) makes is a political decision. It can't be that way. Sometimes you have to do what's best for all the people of the city."

Cruse said the City Council has never turned down a request for money or equipment that Warfield submitted.

"But go down to the street department. It looks like a junk yard. All the equipment is falling apart. His maintenance department is no maintenance. The only snow removal we've got in Granite City is the Warfield said the department might not be perfect, but "it's a lot better than when I got there. My first year we got a 23-inch them to his and the council's satisfaction. Cruse said Warfield, who is responsible for streets and sewers, should be thanked by the engineers until he needs help out of a bind."

Cruse said he resents them because they know their job," Cruse said.

Lupardus said he may not be sure enough to run the city, but "with 38,000 people out there behind me I think we have enough brains to solve the city problems." He said he wants to provide programs for both youth and senior citizens. And he wants to respect the needs of the needs of average and below-average students.

Lupardus admitted he had been indicted by the federal government in 1984, and ultimately paid a fine, for rolling back the odometers on used cars he sold as L&S Auto Sales, but he said rolling back odometers was an accepted practice at the time.

"It was wrong, I don't deny that, but there is nothing I can do to change that," Lupardus said.

Lupardus said he always fixed anything that went wrong with a car he sold, and made sure he took care of every problem when a customer brought back a car.

"I've been through a lot of things in my life," Lupardus said. "I've done things wrong. But I have strong morals or common sense. I've brought up four children. These children were under my control and I brought them up with dignity."

"I believe you can operate a city under the same standard."

Drugs. You can't write how bad hate drugs. I don't know what to do, but I believe you've got to put a stop to them. The only way I would deal with them is 'Dirty Harry' style. If I catch someone selling drugs to our grandchildren, I'll have the police won't have to look for him. His body will be there with the stuff poured out of his chest and they'll know who done it."

Warfield said he didn't know if he would keep any of Cruse's policies if elected mayor in the next

"To be honest, he's lied so much I'm not sure if I know what his policies are," Warfield said.

"Granite City needs industry, not more jobs in hamburger joints at minimum wage and no benefits."

Madison Avenue should have been resurfaced years ago. The main street in town is Madison Avenue and I'll push to get it resurfaced.

"I'm not going to lie. If it hurts me, it hurts me. When I was an alderman, we had leadership. We argued a lot, but we got things done. I can work with the aldermen."

"I really think most of the people support me because I've been honest and he hasn't (regarding promises)."

Cruse categorically denied the allegation and said he will continue the good project he has begun as mayor during the next four years.

"I want to work on the neighborhoods, maybe get pride and enthusiasm back. I want to change the image of the city, clean it up," Cruse said.

"But the city can't do it all. We need the schools and the park district. We need good intergovernmental cooperation. I think in the next four years there will be an effort to do just that."

"There is no power in politics unless you do wrong. If you do the job right, there is no power."

"Warfield wants power. It scares me to death to think it is possible for him to be elected mayor of this city."

It's a beautiful day in this man's neighborhood

I hate it when this happens. I'm hours past deadline (Wednesday 5:15 p.m.) with scarcely an idea in my head. I had in mind to write about how the town is going to hell in a handbasket, but I keep finding hopeful signs that such is not true.

Nothing worse than good news to louse up a columnist's day. I realize some of my regular readers may be shocked if the radically different tone of today's scribbling. Sorry to disappoint, but it's a beautiful day after 5 and still light out.

The days are definitely getting longer and nicer. Daylight Saving Time begins on April 2. I have my first softball practice scheduled for Saturday.

Suppose I could temper my delight with the realization that my first sorrel arm of the season should arrive on Sunday or Monday. But that's inevitable, like age, and how can you argue with the inevitable?

Baseball season starts in a couple of weeks, too. How can anyone be down with baseball just around the corner? I had in mind to write about the signs of a disintegrating world the fact that, when the season does start, they will be serving sushi (raw fish) in Jack Murphy Stadium in San Diego, as was announced recently.

But, hey, they do everything a little weirdly out in Orange County, California. They play some pretty weird baseball, too. Why should we care? We shouldn't, except to rejoice that the Cardinals to roof for, and not the Padres.

We have that consummate broadcaster Jack Buck to enjoy. Too. Moreover, the affable but supremely innane Jay Randolph is out of the local TV picture, and he's gone while I do a handstand!

Here's another bright spot, for some people at least. We may have another NFL team in St. Louis in a few years.

The consolidated election will be over in a couple of weeks. No more grown men saying such nasty things about each other, but the signs will stay up for a few weeks.

Here's another hopeful sign: They tore down the Serra Sculpture in New York City. It was similar to the one in downtown St. Louis (big, rusty and ugly). It cost them $75,000 originally. New York spent an equal amount in legal fees fighting Richard Serra's lawyers for the right to tear it down, and the city will spend another $130,000 to dismantle it.

Money well spent, I'd say, and a sign that even New Yorkers have some sense. Now, if only St. Louis would get rid of "Twain," the monstrosity which the sculptor promised that people would "come to again and again."

They've come to it again and again all right. Usually bearing canisters of spray paint or full bladders.

But as I said, if New York can trash their Serra, there's hope. "More hope on the sporting front: Illinois and Missouri are both alive in the Sweet Sixteen of the NCAA tourney. And 'Storm' Norman" Stewart, Mizou's coach, is on the mend from cancer surgery. A thing like that can give some perspective to even the most die-hard sports fan.

Nobody died from eating Chilean fruit.

You get an extra two days to get your tax return postmarked! (Okay, okay. I realize I'm grasping at pretty thin straws now.)

The relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union has never been better, at least not in the lifetime of most living persons.

The U.S. space program seems to be back on track with a couple of very successful shuttle missions in recent months.

Yeah, things are pretty tough right now for doomsayers. I suppose you could worry about the Greenhouse Effect or the deteriorating ozone layer if you wanted to.

Me, it's just too nice a day. By the way, did I mention I was getting married?

Now you know what's wrong with me.

What can I say? It's 6:30 and the sky is just now darkening. Tomorrow's supposed to be even nicer. Take a whiff, folks. It's springtime.

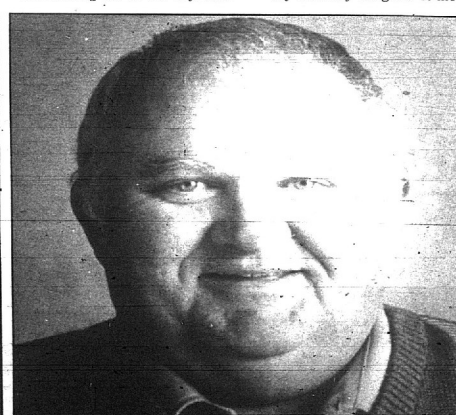

Gosh, oh golly, it's a beautiful day in the neighborhood, isn't it, boys and girls? Sorry. We'll try to be more glum next week.

THE ONE AND ONLY ENDORSEMENT BY THE PETRILLO FAMILY ON BEHALF OF FORMER TREASURER NICK PETRILLO

Before his death Nick made it perfectly clear that on his retirement he would support Gail Valle for Treasurer. Due to his untimely death we believe that it is our responsibility to express Nick's desire.

Nick spoke highly and frequently about the ability Gail displayed in his office. He was so impressed with her work that in 1984 she was appointed Deputy Treasurer at his request.

When Nick was battling cancer and unable to fulfill his duties Gail was able to step in and continue the daily business of the treasurers office.

Nick passed away on November 16, 1987, and Gail was appointed Treasurer two days later. Gail's appointment pleased our family because we knew that she was the most qualified person for the treasurers job and because we knew Nick would have endorsed her himself.

Gail has proven her ability to run the Treasurers office. She is honest, qualified, and Nick believed in her.

Please join the family of Nick Petrillo and elect Gail Valle treasurer on Tuesday, April 4, 1989.

Tax hearings rescheduled

VENICE TOWNSHIP — The time and place of two consecutive public hearings on proposed tax increases in the township have been changed.

Public notices in Sunday's Press-Record-Journal stated that the meetings would begin at 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday, March 28, at the Venice Township Office.

The hearings will actually be held at the Madison Memorial Recreation Center, 1601 Seventh St. in Madison, and will begin at 7 p.m., said Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff.

Pashoff said they were switched because the township offices are too small to accommodate the number of people who might attend.

The proposed 1989-90 tax levy in Venice Township is $271,912, an increase of 76 percent over last year's levy. The proposed 1989-90 tax levy of the highway commissioner of Venice Township is $47,328, an increase of 73 percent.

mayoral election.

"We asked the three mayoral candidates to speak before the delegates and they did," Hoover said.

"We then had a discussion and debate. It was a lively session," he said.

Delegates from 12 or 13 union locals attended the special endorsement meeting. The debate lasted until after midnight. Hoover said.

"This also reflected the active concerns of the delegates on the floor. We did not adjourn until ready. If it had taken three or four hours more, we would have sat there," Hoover said.

Newcomer candidates in Pontoon Beach seeking trustee posts with the Concerned Citizens Party slate were endorsed by the Labor Council.

No endorsements were made in the Venice city election, where opposing candidates are vying for aldermanic seats in the 1st, 2nd and 4th wards.

"The (Venice) candidates did not come before the screening committee for consideration," Hoover said, explaining the lack of endorsements.

Appears in honors publication for '89

Mary A. Elmore of Granite City will appear in the National Dean's List book for 1988-89.

Elmore is a junior at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, majoring in business education and law, and religious studies. She maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average during the fall semester. Active in the Phi Omega Phi and Gamma Delta Phi sororities, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Nickell, 2571 E. 27th St.

To be eligible for the honor, students must maintain a 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale. One half of one percent of all college students are eligible for the publication, which is placed in major corporations and libraries around the country.

If you see news...

If you see news, call the Press-Record Journal at 877, 7700 and ask for the news editor, Mike Myers.

Bill would earmark half of new funds for schools

Illinois Senate legislation would commit at least half of all new spending authority to elementary and secondary education.

The plan would give elementary and secondary schools an additional $440 million for fiscal year 1990, half of the approximately $880 million in new spending authority available using the governor's budget figures.

The governor's budget requests an increase of $214 million for elementary and secondary education.

UTILITY TAX

THE MAYOR SAYS
"LOOK AT THE RECORD"

Well, Let's Tell The Whole Story Mayor

June 18, 1985 On an aldermanic motion, which had no legal effect, Mayor Cruse voted to repeal the utility tax. The Mayor FULL WELL KNEW that this vote, like the referendum, had no legal effect.

Aug. 27, 1985 An ordinance to repeal the tax was finally prepared by the city attorney. When put to a vote, this time it was defeated 7-6. One Alderman changed his vote to defeat the repeal of the tax.

Nov. 18, 1985 The Alderman who changed his vote was given a much needed job at the sewage treatment plant by Mayor Cruse.

Sept. 2, 1986 The city council in a rule suspension vote demonstrated it had the power by an 8-5 margin to repeal the tax, but a motion to defer action by only two Aldermen was improperly allowed by Mayor Cruse.

Sept. 16, 1986 For some reason the city council majority for repeal of the tax lost some support and the tax repeal ordinance was again defeated!

1987, 1988, 1989 The Mayor failed and refused to introduce an ordinance to repeal the tax. In fact, he has never lived up to his campaign pledge to cut the tax!

Candidate Von Dee Cruse said before the 1985 election:

"I believe the voters should have a voice when saddled with the type and extent of the tax increases which they have experienced in the last four years. This referendum is my way of showing Granite Cityans that better fiscal responsibility and greater public involvement will be mainstays of my office when elected as their mayor."

"Vote NO - join my crusade to cut taxes. Vote for new leadership."

Mayor Cruse, on September 16, 1985, told the Aldermen before their vote:

"This is your judgment and if it gets a tie vote, I'll vote." He then reminded the Aldermen that the "City's financial picture could look bleak."

Although candidate Cruse used a tax repeal referendum to win your vote in 1985, throughout his term in office he openly expressed to and lobbied city officials and aldermen to keep the tax.

Donations are still rolling in after Variety Club telethon

C. THOMAS MARSCHEL, president and chief executive officer of the Suburban Journals, left, presents a check for $5,000 to John H. Londoff, chairman of the Sammy Davis Jr. Variety Club Telethon.

The Sammy Davis Jr. Variety Club Telethon signed off at 5:30 p.m. on March 12. But the money for handicapped and disadvantaged children continues to roll in.

On St. Patrick's Day, C. Thomas Marschel, president and chief executive officer of the Suburban Journals, presented a check for $5,000 to telethon Chairman John H. Londoff at the Variety Club offices in Des Peres.

The check represents an additional cash contribution by the Journals, which annually distribute Cash for Kids supplements in Wednesday Journal editions to more than 900,000 households.

"Just because the telethon's over doesn't mean you can't still contribute to the Variety Club," said Marschel, who pointed out that those who may have been unable to pledge during the telethon can still mail in contributions. Contributions should be directed to the St. Louis Variety Club and mailed to the Variety Club, 13075 Manchester Road, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

This year's telethon raised a record $2,621,423, nearly $150,000 more than last year's record total of $2,476,408, which was distributed to 161 children's agencies and a number of individual children.

In the 23-year history of the telethon, the St. Louis Variety Club has raised more than $20 million for children's charities in Greater St. Louis.

Contributions will continue to be totaled through early June, when the Variety Club Allocation Committee will begin its work.

Madison's choice: Belcoff

Incumbent John Belcoff is Madison's best choice for mayor on April 4.

The race features a contest between two members of the council, Belcoff and 2nd Ward Alderman Ron Grzywacz. With four years as mayor and almost four decades of public service behind him, Belcoff deserves re-election.

This election is not a question of politics, though both men have tried their best to make it one. The election is also not a question of Mr. Grzywacz's criminal record, which he has been very frank about, and which the incumbent has not tried to capitalize on with this newspaper. The election is also not a question of John Belcoff's sudden unexplained desire to rid the town of scarlet women, an effort that has developed in the last few weeks.

No, this election is only a matter of experience. Who has the most and who is best suited to take the leadership reins during the next four years.

Now a banker, and a civic and political leader for the last several decades, John Belcoff has developed a sense of community that his opponent is still working toward.

The mayor began his role of community service as a volunteer fireman in 1947. Later he was president of the school board for 15 years and then the city clerk. He is a past president of the Southwestern Illinois Regional Planning Commission and past chairman of the Tri-City Regional Port District.

Today, he is vice president of First National Bank in Madison.

Belcoff, 66, points to new businesses that have been or will soon be established in Madison. That is not to be scoffed at. While most of those operations are small retail outlets, they are still the town's only hope of replacing its industrial losses.

While Grzywacz has recently shown an uncanny ability to not get along with others on the council, the mayor seems to have a better handle on things. The mayor hasn't been in office long enough to re-establish Madison's "machine," so we feel the brotherhood he has developed with a majority of aldermen is more complementary than detrimental.

Grzywacz has charged that Belcoff has hampered potential growth by supporting tax increases in his first term. But it takes more than a mayor to pass a tax increase. If they're really worth their stuff, aldermen, including Grzywacz, can keep those issues in check.

Politics makes for strange bedfellows and Madison has had more than its share in the last 40 years. Less ward politicking and more community service are the keys to the growth of the city. That's what we encourage of Mr. Belcoff in his next term.

Aldermen, others in Madison

Experience also is the key to four aldermanic and two other citywide offices in Madison.

Following are our choices:

First Ward: Incumbent George Amisch is opposed by Richard George. Amisch, a 52-year-old teacher in School District 9 in Granite City, is a lifelong resident of the area, and he has developed a productive working relationship in his four years on the city council.

Second Ward: Three are vying for retiring Richard Asperger's seat. The three are Michael Antonovich Jr., Jim Caffrey and Robert Grieve. Grieve deserves the vote. A former ward alderman and treasurer, he is a 25-year resident of Madison who remembers a strong city of the past and wants it to return.

Third Ward: Appointed incumbent Mike Vrabec is seeking his first election win, but to do so he must beat former Police Chief Bill Papa. Vrabec has our support. At age 30, the lifelong resident has shown a willingness to listen and learn during his short time on the council.

Fourth Ward: Incumbent Charles Rockett is unopposed.

City Clerk: Incumbent Bill Weidner is opposed by Gary Novich, but we see no reason why Weidner, 33, should not be retained. A former Madison policeman and a lifelong resident, he has supervised the city clerk's office during the changeover to computerization. In other matters he has shown a practical approach that would continue to benefit constituents.

Treasurer: Incumbent Fred Bathon is unopposed.

Lively rivalry in Pontoon Beach

Ten capable candidates are competing for four positions on the Pontoon Beach Village Board in the election on Tuesday, April 4. Our choices are as follows.

Three four-year terms: We favor Robert Abel, an incumbent board member who has business experience and is a lifelong resident; Donald McNew, formerly a village board member, village zoning administrator, and firefighter; and Robert Douglas, a contractor and former village health officer.

One two-year term: We recommend Irene Karlechik, a 38-year resident who has extensive experience as a Long Lake Fire District trustee, school secretary, union officer and deputy tax collector.

Nameoki incumbents recommended

Five Nameoki Township officials are unopposed April 4: Supervisor Harry Briggs Sr., Clerk Donald Ridgeway, Highway Commissioner Lee Adams, Assessor Carl Macios and Collector Stephen Isenburg.

For four trustee positions, we recommend the incumbents on the basis of their governmental experience and leadership records — Norman Hall, Joseph Garcia, Mrs. Dell Whitsell and Ken Davis.

Who's Belcoff trying to kid?

To the editor:

The local elections are upon us. It's time to put on a smile, extend a hand once in awhile he would find that we are not only bartenders, but say a friendly "Hello, how was your day?"

It's time for cheap shots and false accusations. You know the kind. Our mayor of Madison so boldly put it into print. I'm speaking of the Feb. 12 headline, "Belcoff backs banning bare bums."

Where is he coming from? Maybe if he got off the pew and onto a barstool once in awhile he would find that we are not only bartenders, but say a friendly "Hello, how was your day?" to that lonely 70-year-old man. He may only stay an hour, have a bite to eat, spend only $2, but he's there everyday and he'll be there April 4 voting what he knows.

Then there's that working man. He puts in 40 hours a week at the mill.

Half of his check goes for child support; the rest on taxes. He might come in three, four or five times a week before or after work.

He tips a dollar here and there. That's what keeps me off-welfare. What's the big deal if he sees a little — even a lot of cleavage? He will also be at the polls on April 4.

Moving Madison forward. The point is to sling mud. It's what elections are made of. Everyone expects it. But don't step on toes.

Be kind to your local bartender, she may only clear $150 a week raising a family, but she talks to 150 people a day and performs just as many duties. My friends will be voting April 4 on the "bare facts."

I am a Granite City voter by law, and a Madison supporter by choice.

Savings and loan deserves trust

To the editor:

I am directing this letter to those concerned with the current situation of Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Recently, the institution was identified as one of those who are insolvent, and it is currently under the supervision of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC).

Each depositor is insured for up to $100,000 of their deposits.

In addition, the federal government has appointed regulators to the institution. These regulators will oversee the operation and assist in reversing the institution's financial standing.

Business will be conducted as usual and will not be affected by the presence of these regulators. The doors will remain open.

Contrary to what some may have been led to believe, the losses incurred by Madison County Federal were in no way a result of foul play. The truth is that the thrift extended loans to credit-worthy individuals and, because of unforeseen economic conditions, these loans became uncollectible.

I am disappointed in the few customers who insist on withdrawing all their funds from the institution. This money is insured, and backed by the full faith and credit of the United States government.

The customers have every right to be concerned about their hard-earned money, but I think some are carrying this concern a little too far. Madison County Federal had confidence in its customers when it extended the now delinquent loans, as did many other financial institutions which have suffered similar losses.

Many also have confidence that when an account is open, the holder will be honest in conducting transactions against the account. In turn, the customers must have trust in the system, and believe their money is safe in all respects. When this trust is diminished, not only is the institution affected, but the economy suffers as well.

Madison County Federal Savings and Loan will continue to conduct business, keeping the customer's financial security as its main objective.

Former alderman recalls tax issue

To the editor:

As a citizen of Granite City and a taxpayer also, I feel compelled to answer both Mr. Star and Mayor Cruse. She is the sister of Assistant Fire Chief Bob Bell, whom Mayor Cruse appointed to the position.

She says she doesn't normally get involved in politics! Ha, ha. Come on, Shirley, who stood at the polls for Bill Seago last spring in the Democratic primary? I guess she has amnesia, the disease Mayor Cruse has about the utility tax issue.

Mayor, how can you say you didn't vote to keep that tax when you know in your heart you did. I made the motion to abolish the utility tax; I don't care what your minutes say, Mayor.

Remember, Mayor, what you said when I asked at the meeting how you were going to vote? You said, "If it's a tie, you'll find out." I also remember making it 7-7. "Well, Mayor, now we know how you stand."

Well, we know now. We still have the utility tax.

Yes, the snow was removed from Birch; job well done.

Signs of spring's arrival

Ah, spring. The time when birds begin to sing. Warmth hovers nearby. Blooms begin to pop out. And election signs clutter the horizon.

Signs of spring, you might say. Elections have launched the career of many a raging environmentalist, probably more than a few right here. Each passing day a different view is blocked.

I have a few opinions on election signs — some theories that I think apply pretty much from town to town. Let's use Granite City as the "model" city.

Last week we reported a resident waking to find 20 election signs in his front yard. Now most people thought the responsible culprit was a sneaky vandal who grabbed all the signs from one block and plopped them in this guy's yard. But couldn't the problem also have been multiplication? You know like in rabbits? Put two signs together and look what happens.

Sign location is everything, too. The unwritten rule must be: "Always locate near other candidates' signs." Yesterday, on the same corner, I saw one sign for "Mac," one for "Brv" and one for "Paul Ray." Then there was one for a candidate I'd never even heard of, "Coldwell Banker."

Of course, "Mac" might not think that was so bad, now that I think about it.

I believe his name was. The type of sign makes a difference in a campaign, too. Recently I saw one with simple but inspirational color. It read: "Vote for Don Dee." It was so convincing there were no telling how many people are going to the poll April 4 looking for Mr. Dee's name.

Signs, signs, everywhere there are signs, blocking out the scenery, breaking my mind. Gosh, that sounds like a good line for a ... Oh, never mind.

Grants available for renovating small businesses

'During 1988, this program provided 38 grants totaling $122,872 to small businesses rehabilitating equipment or physical plants to conserve energy'

Jay R. Hedges

Energy conservation projects.

During 1988, this program provided 38 grants totaling $122,872 to small businesses rehabilitating equipment or physical plants to conserve energy," Hedges said. "The average grant was over $3,200 — a substantial boost to encourage small business owners to implement more energy-efficient systems."

Hedges said qualifying projects must show estimated energy savings, based on past use compared to usage following project completion. Projects typically include replacing heating or air conditioning systems, installing insulation, replacing single-pane windows and installing energy management systems and equipment.

Businesses which replace existing equipment with new more energy-efficient equipment for use in their operations may also qualify for the interest write-down grants.

New construction does not qualify.

To obtain a grant, businesses must complete an application, taking it to an Illinois lending institution to obtain an approved loan to fund the project. The lender then submits the application to DCCA, which may prepay 100 percent of the loan interest costs, up to $20,000, directly to the lender as a grant. Grants are based on the term of the loan or the first five years of the loan, whichever is less.

The approval process takes about three weeks. Businesses may begin projects upon receiving written approval from DCCA, with local lenders receiving grant funds approximately a month later.

The Illinois Small Business

Energy Management Program also offers free, on-site, walk-through energy audits to help businesses identify low-cost or non-cost methods of conserving energy. DCCA estimates businesses receiving the audits could save 5 percent to 25 percent on annual energy use by implementing the audit recommendations.

Since the program began in 1983, more than 2,000 free walk-through audits have been performed.

To obtain a grant application, a free energy audit, or for further information about the Illinois Small Business Energy Management Program, contact the Illinois Small Business Hotline at 1-800-252-2923.

Enterprise zones paying off for some municipalities, not for others

By Roger McGrath

Enterprise zones, including the one in the Granite City area, appear to be paying off.

Nashville, Ill., Mayor Paul Wilkey says the Nashville/Washington County enterprise zone is responsible for having added more than 750 jobs in the county.

Another 100 to 150 positions could be added by year-end, he says.

Granite City's enterprise zone also has had a big impact.

Enterprise zones — economically distressed areas where local and state governments offer a variety of incentives such as tax breaks and tax credits to encourage industrial development — have had similar success elsewhere in the bi-state St. Louis metropolitan area.

Officials claim the Riverbend zone in the Alton area is responsible for having retained 1,388 jobs and created 154 new ones.

The Tri-City zone, serving Granite City, Madison and Venice, has retained 2,750 jobs and created 399 new ones, says the City of St. Louis zone in the Manchester/Chouteau neighborhood has attracted 14 businesses and created 329 new jobs.

St. Louis County is lagging behind in enterprise zone activity, officials say.

The discovery four years ago of PCB contamination at the old Wagner Electric plant in Wellston put the county's timetable for developing the enterprise zone at least three years behind schedule, says Dee Joyner of the County Economic Council. The contamination by PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls), a toxic chemical used to make electrical transformers, has made clean-up a priority.

Marketing of the 15-acre site should get under way soon after demolition of buildings there begins; that work is expected to start this fall, says Mark Tranel, director of development for the economic council.

Designation as an enterprise zone "gives an area a little extra edge, but it is (a designation given) an area that needs a little extra edge to compete against industrial parks and other towns seeking employment," explains Jim Pennekamp, president of the Greater Alton/Twin Rivers Growth Association and a former Granite City area chamber executive.

In Illinois, the incentives include property tax abatement and exemptions from some sales taxes.

"The zone focuses additional incentives beyond those you can get anywhere else," says John Herzog, economic development coordinator for Madison County, which administers the Riverbend enterprise zone.

"Even more importantly, existing companies can use the incentives," Pennekamp notes. "In fact, much of the zone's success is the result of expansion by companies already located in enterprise zones."

Granite City Steel, for instance, accounts for much of the 2,750 jobs Herzog says the Tri-City zone has retained.

"We're trying to build on our existing base," he says.

Among the incentives available at Illinois enterprise zones: "Tax abatement. In Madison County, the value of newly constructed improvements such as an addition to an existing plant won't be put on the tax roll for four years; in nearby Bond County, abatement is granted for seven years.

"Exemption from the sales tax on building materials. 'So it's 64 percent cheaper to build right off,'" notes Larry Stoever, manager of Greenville, where a 200,000-square-foot distribution center for United Stationers Supply is projected to open this summer.

"A 1-percent investment tax credit, double the amount the State of Illinois will allow outside enterprise zones."

"A tax credit of $500 per eligible employee (read 'disadvantaged') or 'chronically unemployed'."

This is available only for companies that hire a minimum of five new employees.

For those that invest $5 million and create 200 new jobs in an enterprise zone or that invest $20 million and retain 200 jobs, the sales tax won't be levied against machinery and other operating equipment that is purchased by the companies.

Companies that meet the $5 million investment test, or that invest $20 million and retain 1,000 jobs are exempt from pay-

Enterprise zones economic battlegrounds

Enterprise zones are just another tool in the economic development arsenal as states, cities and towns do battle for new jobs, officials say.

"It is not in and of itself the answer. It is another tool to encourage development," says Terry Farris, director of development for the Economic Development Corp. of the City of St. Louis.

The incentives available within enterprise zones can "tip" the scales in one direction or another, economic development coordinator for Madison County.

Even those incentives might not be enough, however. St. Louis County, for instance, has decided the buildings at the Wagner Electric site, part of the county's enterprise zone, must be demolished if the zone is to attract tenants and jobs.

Demolition will yield a cleared 15-acre tract (another 5 acres are in a floodplain) and put the Wellston site in competition with similar-sized parcels throughout the county, says Mark Tranel, director of development for the St. Louis County Economic Council.

Farris notes that the city's enterprise zone in the Manchester/Chouteau neighborhood "has had a modest level of benefit," with 14 businesses creating 329 new jobs.

But it is also important to have tools like UDAG, the Urban Development Action Grant program that the federal government eliminated, he says.

The city's 30 UDAG projects received $80 million in federal money and led to $710 million in development, 9,000 construction jobs, 8,000 permanent jobs (half held by minorities) and 2,500 housing units.

UDAG projects included such developments as St. Louis Union Station, the Adams Hotel, condominiums and industrial expansion.

"It's the combination of these tools that is necessary" to land new jobs and create existing businesses expand, Farris says.

ing the state's 5.1 percent utility tax for a specified period. "In the case of Granite City Steel and Olin Corp., that amounts to a lot of money," Herzog says.

Executives of American Steel Foundries, which recently announced it would reopen its Granite City plant and recall up to 250 former employees, cited the utility tax exemption, he adds.

All the foundry's steel furnaces are powered by electricity.

Nashville's experience is a bit different. When the Canadian auto supplier Magna International was looking for sites, "they knew what enterprise zones were and what they had to offer," Mayor Wilkey says.

"They requested to be in an enterprise zone," a request Gov. James Thompson helped Nashville fulfill, Wilkey says.

"We got, as a result of those two plants, a McDonald's restaurant and a Hardee's restaurant," he says.

Magna's auto plants employ about 750 people, 95 percent of whom are residents of Nashville or Washington County, he says. And now plant officials are talking about adding 100 to 150 more employees, which would mean the enterprise zone brought 900 jobs to a county of 15,700.

But the new jobs haven't solved the county's unemployment problem, which hovered around 13 percent before Magna came to town, Wilkey says.

People from across the United States have migrated to Nashville in search of work.

Wilkey says it would be difficult to compute how high the town's unemployment percentage is now because of the transient population.

Army of Salvation still moving forward

"Onward Christian Soldiers"

No, they didn't play that, but "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" was presented in the slowest possible and then the fastest possible tempos.

It was an eclectic evening March 14, the 1989 civic dinner of the Salvation Army in the Quad City area.

ELECTIC?
I don't get that many chances to use eclectic—selected from a variety of sources—so I'd better take advantage of it.

The Tree of Lights campaign story celebration, "Jungle Stories" by Dana Brown, and Dixieland music by Singleton Palmer and his sextet.

They were widely differing elements of the occasion, but nevertheless combined well to make it a highly enjoyable night.

Ancestors' names can go on Ellis wall

The American Immigrant Wall of Honor, on which people can have the names of ancestors who immigrated to the United States inscribed for a donation, will be the centerpiece of the new Ellis Island Museum in New York.

Local and national ethnic groups are encouraging residents all over the country to send in the name of an ancestor to preserve the rich ethnic heritage of those who came to this area.

"Remember, it took a lot of guts for our forefathers leave their homes to come to a foreign land," said Eugene Krzyzanski, president of the Polish Falcons of America, District II, which covers the St. Louis area. "And it wasn't easy once they got here—a foreign language, foreign customs, foreign culture. They were a proud people and as their descendants, we should be just as proud of them."

A permanent spot on the wall for the name of an ancestor costs $100, with all proceeds going toward the continuing renovation of the Ellis Island Foundation. The Ellis Island Foundation also has made provisions for those who wish to donate more, with their names receiving special honor on the wall.

"The brick and mortar we are repairing and the historic artifacts being restored are merely symbols of our great immigrant heritage," said Stephen Briganti, president of the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation. "The names of the people that will be told—the names and faces of the people who came to this country—their ethnic history and the emotions they felt here at Ellis Island are the real focal point of our effort."

The foundation is responsible for fund-raising and overall construction and restoration of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island in cooperation with the United States Department of Interior National Park Service.

Other highlights of the Immigration Museum at Ellis Island include a three-story museum with 100,000 square feet of display space, a library for immigration studies, and an Oral History Studio containing a massive collection of taped reminiscences of Ellis Island immigrants.

"For many years, Ellis Island was abandoned, perhaps representing America's utilitarian ways rather than a lack of pride in its heritage," Briganti said. "But once again we have become interested in, even proud of, our ethnic roots and traditions, much like our great-grandfathers."

The Ellis Island restoration is expected to cost about $140 million, with 100 percent of that money coming from private donations. To date, an estimated 20 million Americans have contributed to the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation.

Ellis Island was once the nation's major federal immigration facility, processing 17 million immigrants between 1892 and 1954. It was the largest human migration in history, and it is estimated that over 40 percent, or more than 100 million, of all living Americans can trace their roots to an Ellis Island immigrant.

For more information about the Ellis Island Campaign, contact the foundation at 52 Vanderbilt Ave. New York, N.Y., 10017-3806, or call 863-1986.

And a brand new program focused on back-to-school supplies.

SOCIAL ADJUSTMENT and development received much emphasis. In addition, a full spectrum of activities was conducted at the Salvation Army Center on East 23rd Street.

National and area services (not all conducted locally) include family service bureau, spiritual guidance and evangelism, maternity homes and hospitals, emergency shelters, community recreation centers, a missing persons bureau, adult rehabilitation centers, day care, foster home care, disaster emergency services, summer camp and youth programs.

Also, emergency residences for young women, hospital visitation, employment bureau, senior citizen centers and residences, correctional services, youth groups, Red Shield camps for servicemen, Home League programs, service units, residences for abused and neglected children, and drug and alcohol rehabilitation.

AS IS APPARENT, the Salvation Army is still advancing, still gaining adherents to its cause.

It is involved in just about every kind of service that might be useful to people who encounter tough times.

And it does so in a way that preserves individuals' dignity; children's Christmas gifts, for example, are provided unmarked, for labeling and distribution by the parents.

I haven't been as active in it as I'd like to be, but maybe this column will help me "pay a few dues" to the second army with which I've been associated.

Thompson ponders fifth term

The popularity of Gov. James R. Thompson among voters has risen as he contemplates whether to seek a record fifth term.

But Secretary of State Jim Edgar and Attorney General Neil Hartigan would be very close contenders if he doesn't, according to a new public opinion poll.

Results of an Illinois voter survey taken for Republican Edgar show that he is favored over Democrat Hartigan by 46 to 41 percent among likely voters, according to Edgar's staff advisers and GOP political consultants who reviewed the poll results at a two-day strategy session.

Results of the poll were not officially released. But the Chicago Sun-Times quoted unnamed sources as reporting that 53 percent of those surveyed approved of Thompson's job performance.

Although Thompson's rating rebounded from a 13-point dip in 18 months ago, shortly after his first unsuccessful attempt at passing a state income tax increase, 44 percent of the voters still view him unfavorably.

The poll said Edgar's job approval rating was 45 percent, with a 7 percent disapproval. Hartigan's rating was 45 percent, with a 6 percent disapproval.

The statewide survey of 800 registered voters was taken last month by Market Opinion Research of Ann Arbor, Mich. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.5 percent, the pollster said.

The Chicago Tribune reported that aides and political advisers to Edgar said they were heartened by the poll results, particularly the job approval ratings.

Edgar and his advisers expect Thompson to announce later this year that he will not seek re-election to another term, the newspaper said.

Thompson is not expected to disclose his plans until the summer.

Limited state fund increase proposed

In his annual budget message to state lawmakers, Gov. James R. Thompson presented a spending proposal for the coming fiscal year listing additional money for education, the fight against drug abuse, and efforts to help the state's mentally ill and developmentally disabled, according to State Rep. Ron Stephens, R-Troy.

Stephens said the governor's $21.8 billion plan for fiscal year 1990 spending includes $733 million more than the FY 89 budget. Most of the additional dollars would come from anticipated natural growth in state revenues, Stephens said.

Education was targeted as a top priority in the budget, with an additional $344.6 million slated for elementary, secondary and higher education. Elementary and secondary education would receive $3.04 billion in FY 90, $214.6 million more than this year. Higher education would receive nearly $1.5 billion, a $130 million increase.

Funding for many human service programs was also increased under the proposed budget. Included in the increased funding are initiatives to combat drug abuse and to help improve the quality of life for the state's mentally ill and developmentally disabled.

Also, the House Republican Task Force on Sales Tax Reform heard testimony from local officials on a new provision which makes local sales tax revenues subject to the Legislature's annual appropriations process.

Several local officials said they depend on the current continuous distribution of these revenues for their budgets, and fear a change to annual appropriations would jeopardize their financial future.

To correct this and other problems in the new law, task force members introduced HB 248 which would distribute these revenues on a continuing basis. The measure also clarifies the state's new photocopying tax, which is levied only on the retail value of the photocopying process of a bill.

Lawmakers continued to introduce legislation for consideration this spring. Stephens said bills introduced include:

Property Tax Deferral (HB 374) Provides that real property may qualify for the Senior Citizens Real Estate Tax Deferral if the property was temporarily unoccupied by the taxpayer because of the taxpayer's temporary residence in a nursing or sheltered care home.

Shelled Corn Heat Tax Credit (HB 404) Allows an individual a credit equal to 10 percent of the cost of a shelled corn burning heat unit for a family dwelling unit occupied by the taxpayer.

Custody Considerations (HB 389) Provides that the court, in determining child custody, shall consider whether the potential custodian (if a parent of the child) has been convicted of first degree murder, second degree murder or involuntary manslaughter of the child's other parent.

Battery by Convicts (HB 398) Any person in a state correctional facility who is convicted of battery against a prison employee during his imprisonment shall be confined to a cell for 24 hours a day for a year for each conviction.

Consent for Adoption (HB 404) Provides that a parent who has consented to the adoption or surrender of a child may revoke that consent or surrender if the parent was a custodial parent; the revocation is made in writing and served upon the appropriate person; and the revocation is made within six months after the execution of the consent or surrender or the birth of the child, or prior to the filing of a petition to adopt the child, whichever occurs first.

Loss of Good Time Credit (HB 408) Any inmate in possession of a shank or sharpened metal object shall lose all accumulated good behavior credit.

Restricted Contact (HB 440) Provides juvenile delinquents and adults on supervision or probation may be required to stay away from certain areas, refrain from contact with certain persons or types of persons, (See BILLS, Page 3C)

Bill would spur rehab of historic buildings, production of low-income housing: Danforth

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff affiliate

WASHINGTON — Republican Sen. John C. Danforth of Missouri recently introduced a new bill to spur rehabilitation of historic buildings and production of low-income housing.

Danforth said that provisions in the 1986 tax law have worked to depress investment in historic rehabilitation and low-income housing.

"Since 1986, rehabilitation has ground to a virtual halt in St. Louis, in other Missouri communities, and in cities across the nation," Danforth said in a prepared statement. "The National Park Service has reported that historic rehabilitation activity has declined to roughly one-third of the pre-tax reform level of $2 billion annually."

The legislation would stimulate historic rehabilitation and low-income housing by removing obstacles to investment created by so-called "passive loss" provisions of the 1986 tax law.

"We believe it will provide a significant boost for a cause that ought to be a national mission: to save for this and future generations the housing stock that exists in communities all over the U.S.," Danforth said.

The bill's other principal sponsor is Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, a Democrat from Maine. Missouri's junior Republican Senator, Christopher S. "Kit" Bond, is a cosponsor. The bill, called the Community Revitalization Tax Act of 1989, is a first step toward implementing recommendations made last month by the Mitchell-Danforth Low-Income Housing Task Force.

According to Danforth, key features of the act include:

- Individuals who invest in rehabilitation of historic structures and low-income housing would be allowed to use these tax credits to reduce tax liability on other income under the general tax rules; the general rules are less stringent than the "passive loss" rules created by the 1986 tax reform.

- The bill would tighten the use of all business credits for individuals, including the credits for historic rehabilitation and low-income housing. Under present law, individuals may use $25,000 in credits to reduce tax liability, plus an amount of credits equal to 75 percent of remaining liability.

- In addition, the alternative minimum tax act would still apply.

Drugs cost building industry millions of dollars annually

By Jack Cowan

ST. LOUIS — Construction workers traditionally have viewed themselves as a hard-working, hard-living, hard-drinking bunch, said William E. Maloney, a professor of engineering at the University of Michigan.

But the "macho" image prevalent in the construction industry often makes it difficult to recognize that alcohol and drug abuse costs the industry billions of dollars, Maloney said.

Maloney is the author of a national study on alcohol and drug abuse in the construction industry. He was invited to St. Louis to conduct a recent seminar for construction company officials and labor union leaders on the problems associated with drug and alcohol abuse. The seminar was sponsored by the St. Louis Council of Construction Employers—PRIDE.

Alcohol and drug abuse exacts a heavy toll in accidents, deaths, workmen's compensation claims, lost productivity and lost profits, Maloney told about 70 construction company officials and union leaders attending the seminar from both sides of the river.

"Somewhere between 10 and 15 percent of construction workers are involved in substance abuse," Maloney said. "The cost to the industry is in excess of $10 billion."

Maloney's figures are the result of a national study he conducted last year for the University Center for Construction Engineering and Management at the University of Texas in Austin. The center is a consortium of about 60 construction company owners and contractors who pay $25,000 annually to fund the center's programs and research, he said.

Maloney's study shows that alcohol is the most commonly abused substance with marijuana and cocaine ranking second and third respectively. "I think it's fairly easy to understand why (alcohol) is ranked No. 1," Maloney said. "Alcohol is legal and easily available, whereas marijuana and cocaine are both illegal and harder to get."

His study also shows that alcohol abuse is most prevalent among those who are 40 years old or older. Drug abuse is more common among younger workers, he said.

Substance abuse is not just a problem in the field, either," Maloney said. "What about project managers? What about project engineers? Substance abuse is a problem at all levels."

Maloney said his study was intended to identify the use or abuse of drugs and alcohol to the extent that it impairs job performance.

Based on that, the study shows that alcohol and drug abusers:

- Are late arriving at work three times more often than other workers.
- Request early dismissals from work 2.2 times more often than other workers.
- Have 2.5 times as many absences of eight days or more.
- Use three times the normal level of sick benefits.
- Are five times more likely to file a worker's compensation claim.
- Are involved in accidents 3.6 times more often than other employees.
- Perform at 67 percent of normal ability.
- Are more likely to be involved in theft of company property.

Maloney said construction company officials, union leaders and workers must become more aware of the problem, begin training people to recognize workers with problems and begin treatment programs. "A lot of contractors said getting them (substance abusers) off the job site is the best solution," Maloney said. "But on the East Coast, the construction industry is beginning to experience manpower shortages."

"You can't afford to throw away good people," Maloney said. "But on the East Coast, the construction industry is beginning to experience manpower shortages."

SHARE marks first anniversary

Come SHARE, a program that helps people stretch their food dollar and provide service to their communities at the same time, will celebrate its first anniversary in central and southern Illinois with the dedication of a new freezer and coolers at the SHARE warehouse.

The Self-Help And Resource Exchange program is sponsored by Catholic Charities, an office of the Diocese of Springfield in Illinois.

Come SHARE participants receive one unit, or about $30 worth of fresh food, in exchange for $12 in cash or food stamps and two hours of community service every month.

There is no limit to the number of units individual participants may receive as long as they offer $12 and two hours of service in exchange for each unit.

Diocesan Bishop Daniel Ryan dedicated the new equipment March 15 during a ceremony at the SHARE warehouse, 1215 Bush Ave. Springfield. National and state SHARE administrators and state and local government officials have been invited to the dedication.

Bishop Ryan said of the SHARE program, "While President George Bush is talking about the thousand points of light, the participants in Come SHARE are igniting them. The countless hours of community service they've offered during the program's first year in the diocese is breathtaking."

According to Ed Hoaglin, Come SHARE distribution site director, some of the community service hours generated go into the program itself while other service hours go to the communities in the form of volunteer service in churches, nursing homes, hospitals and community organizations.

Although Come SHARE is sponsored by Catholic Charities, it is not just a Catholic program, said Jack Rolens, SHARE director. "All people, no matter what their religious beliefs or economic status, can benefit from participation in Come SHARE," Rolens said.

There will be a tour of the SHARE warehouses, from which food is distributed each month to 136 local distribution sites in central and southern Illinois and parts of Missouri and Indiana.

Sites include Highland in Madison County and Washington Park in St. Clair County.

Love reincarnated throws twist into 'Chances Are'

"Chances Are" (***), a new story in an old film genre that invites the audience to relax, forget their troubles and fall in love with this hopelessly romantic exercise in love lost/love found movie making.

Opening to the strains of Johnny Mathis singing "Chances Are," we see Corinne Jeffries (Cybill Shepherd) marching down the aisle on her father's arm. It is Corinne's wedding day. The place is Washington, D.C., in the early 1960s.

Waiting for Corinne at the end of the aisle is her fiancé, Louie Jeffries, played by Christopher McDonald. Alongside Louie is his best man, Philip Train, played by Ryan O'Neal. Philip leans over to Louie just seconds before Corinne arrives at the altar and tells Louie that he is in love with Corinne. "I know," Louie says.

"Louie and Corinne settle in with everything ahead of them. Louie is a promising young attorney, Corinne is his beaming bride. Then one day, as Louie is crossing a street on his way to a restaurant where Corinne is waiting him, he is hit by a car and killed. In scenes that resemble shots from "Heaven Can Wait," Louie is next shown in heaven, impatiently arguing his case for an immediate return to earth and his former life.

Even heaven cannot produce that miracle, but Louie is allowed to be reincarnated as a baby boy about to be born in Cleveland. Louie then begins his adventurous, two-decade trek to return to his beloved Corinne.

The next scene is 20 years later. Corinne, who was pregnant when Louie was killed, now has a daughter Miranda, played smartly by Mary Stuart Masterson, a young actress who looks better with every new film. Corinne now is working at the Smithsonian Institute as a curator and Miranda is a law student at Yale.

Enter Robert Downey Jr. as Alex Finch, a recent Yale grad who meets Miranda accidentally at the library and, after graduation, heads for Washington, D.C., to try and brave his way into a job as a cub reporter on the Washington Post. Only Alex is really Louie reincarnated, and when casual circumstance bring Alex, Corinne, Philip and Miranda all together in Corinne's house, strange things happen.

Alex realizes he is really Louie and falls back in love with Corinne, which is a shock to Miranda because she's in love with Alex. In addition, Philip has never married and decided that even though he can't have Corinne as his wife, he will settle for the next best thing, her friendship and admiration. "Chances Are" rises above its own story inadequacies through a combination of positive elements.

Shepherd is a dream as Corinne, thoroughly effective and believable. Downey gives the best performance of his career in a role that calls for sincerity, comedy and a lot of inner conviction. O'Neal does yeoman work as the love-struck friend. Masterson charms Miranda.

Scoring by three-time Academy Award winner Maurice Jarre ("Lawrence of Arabia," "Dr. Zhivago" and "A Passage to India") is occasionally overbearing, but always fittingly romantic. William Fraker's cinematography is soft and bright, matching the film's hopeful tone.

"Chances Are," which is directed by Emile Ardolino ("Dirty Dancing") is an old-fashioned film for people who like an old film form dressed up in the best new technology available. You may read or hear some criticism of this film, but don't believe it. "Chances Are," you'll like it.

Rated PG-13 (adult romantic situations). Running time: 110 minutes.

CYBILL SHEPHERD stars with Robert Downey Jr. in the comedy "Chances Are."

Muny summer season set

By Harry Hamm
Staff affiliate

As new musicals become almost an unknown quantity on the summer straw-hat circuit, The Muny is leaning heavily on revivals, scheduling six for the summer 1989 season in Forest Park in St. Louis.

And only one of those shows — "Godspell" — has not played The Muny before. "Godspell," which is slated for the week of July 31, is the religiously oriented musical from the 1971 Broadway season.

Here's how the rest of The Muny's summer slate shapes up: June 5 — "A Chorus Line" will make its fourth visit to The Muny.

June 19 — "Gypsy" will be presented for the fourth time.

July 10 — "Annie" will visit for the fourth time.

July 17 — "The King and I" will be presented for the ninth time.

July 24 — "Evita" will be presented for the third time.

The Muny soon will announce one more attraction, to be presented the week of Aug. 14, to round out the seven-show season.

As always, casting is a critical item affecting the attendance of Muny shows and two performers now slated for The Muny have, at least at this time, questionable musical credentials. They are Tyne Daly and Sandra Santiago.

Daly, a star in television's "Cagney and Lacey," will play the role of Mama Rose in "Gypsy." During a recent appearance on "The Pat Sajak Show," Daly said she was concerned about her singing abilities but was working hard with a vocal coach to get ready for the tour.

Stegemeier looking to seniors for leadership

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — There is at least one similarity between this year's Warrior baseball team and the 1987 edition. Bob Stegemeier can only hope for more.

Like the great 1987 squad which finished 29-10 and one game shy of the state tournament, the 1988 Warriors boast plenty of returning senior talent. Whether this group can match the talent of the vaunted group of two years ago is a big question mark. But Stegemeier knows a lot more about this team, which is scheduled to open the season Saturday at noon with a double-header against Washington (Ill.) at Varsity Field, than he did a year ago.

"There is a lot of experience here," said Stegemeier. "They are further advanced in their skills and the attitude has been great. I'm very happy with what I've seen so far."

The heart of the team gained its first varsity experience during an up-and-down 19-19 1988 season which ended with a 10-8 loss to Jerseyville in the regional semifinals. Graduated are the team's leading hitter (Craig Dippele, .370) and leading pitcher (John Moard, 7-2, 3.87 ERA). Chris Hampey and Mike Krausz were also lost to graduation. Juniors John VanBuskirk and Matt Scherke elected not to go out for baseball this year, but other than that, most of last year's significant contributors are back.

The one-two righty-lefty combination on the mound will be seniors Tim Black and Mark Begando. Black (4-3, 2.63 ERA in 48 innings in 1988) is the right-hander and showed promise last year in high school and Legion ball.

"Tim's a very hard worker," Stegemeier said. "He can throw hard, but he'll have to do it with control. He has a very good curve ball when he concentrates and gets it over. That's when he's most effective." Begando is a 5-5 left-hander who has been on the varsity since his sophomore year. Formerly a stringbean, he weighs close to 200 pounds now and the added strength should help.

"He's bigger and stronger and has a more serious attitude," Stegemeier said. "He hasn't had any arm trouble yet and he seems prepared to play and compete."

Begando was 2-4 last year with a 5.80 ERA in 35 innings after a 2-1, 2.33 ERA effort in 21 innings as a sophomore.

"We are very inexperienced as far as varsity pitching is concerned after those two," Stegemeier said. "The others have had some success in summer ball. (Rich) Schardan and (Brian) Harshany got some varsity pitching last year, but both were hurt by tournament time."

—Bob Stegemeier

Schardan and Harshany, both juniors, are counted on to be versatile performers. Besides pitching, Stegemeier is hoping they can help out in the infield. Chris Hampey and Matt Scherke were 4-1 with an 0.92 ERA in Junior Legion last summer.

"Needham could be the dark horse," said Stegemeier of a pitcher who had a solid 3.20 ERA in Junior Legion. "And (Junior) Tom Senecyn can throw hard and did well on the sophomore team."

Joe Wallace, a starter since his freshman year, returns as the catcher. Wallace hit .325 last year with five home runs and a team-leading 31 RBIs. His potential is massive.

"I think he's a major college prospect right now," Stegemeier said. "He needs to keep his front side in and stay with the curve ball and he will be an excellent hitter. As a catcher, he has shown great improvement at blocking pitches. He has a great arm when he has his balance."

open until Wednesday at Wood River. Then, on next Thursday's game at Francis Howell North, 13 of the next 17 games are at home. Six of the eight scheduled double-headers this season are at Varsity Field.

The Warriors have dropped out of the Hazelwood Central Tournament, so their only regular-season tournament will be the Granite City Round Robin on April 21-22 featuring Belleville, Alton, Normal and Glenbrook North.

The first Southwestern Conference game is April 6 when Alton visits Granite City. The SWC will be a "dogfight" this year, according to Stegemeier.

He should be very good."

Wallace came within one of tying the school record for home runs last season. With the short fence left field at Varsity Field, he could make another run at that mark. Joining him in that assault could be senior first baseman Kory Burton, who hit .256 with two homers and 16 RBIs last year, then had a solid summer offensively in Legion play (.378 with three home runs in the playoffs).

Kory should hit with some power and he has really improved defensively," Stegemeier said. "He can get the ball out of the dirt and his shoulder has healed, so his throwing is 100 percent better."

Senior Chris Ryan will be the second baseman and the steady glove on the infield.

"He didn't play summer ball, but Chris worked hard in the pre-season and came in in good shape from soccer," Stegemeier said. "He turns the double play down on the ball and he is developing softer hands," Stegemeier said. "He is the key to our success on the infield. Chad has the tools. He just needs the confidence."

Senior Kurt Hodges hit .311 last year and will start at third base. He also had his troubles defensively, however. "Kurt needs to get a little more relaxed," Stegemeier said. "He sometimes overplays the ball and he doesn't need to do that because he has a good arm. He has matured and we need his bat."

Left field is up for grabs until senior center fielder Chris Bartling returns from a shoulder injury, which could be a week into the season. Senior Dennis Laboray, who missed last season because of a knee injury, could

Senior Jeff Kohler, the only regular left-handed bat on the team, will play center field until Bartling returns and then will move to left. Senior Keith Matlock, who hit .302 and had a dramatic grand slam in the regular-season finale at Carbondale, will be in right.

"Keith has a great arm and the good bat," Stegemeier said. "But he needs to work on his defensive skills. He's a good contact hitter and could supply some power."

The Warriors will be better when Bartling, an excellent center fielder who hit .289 with 13 RBIs and five triples, returns. Others who could see some playing time are juniors Mike

Schedule favors home-standing Warriors

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Those of you who like to go to Varsity Field to watch baseball will have plenty of opportunities this spring.

The Warriors have 35 games on the regular-season schedule, and 23 of them will be played at home, starting with Saturday's noon double-header against Washington. The rain that fell early this week, however, has left the field in a rather moist state. Bob Stegemeier says it's doubtful, but if the sun continues to shine, if the weather stays warm and if a little wind blows, the field could be ready.

Otherwise, the Warriors won't open until Wednesday at Wood River. Then, on next Thursday's game at Francis Howell North, 13 of the next 17 games are at home. Six of the eight scheduled double-headers this season are at Varsity Field.

The Warriors have dropped out of the Hazelwood Central Tournament, so their only regular-season tournament will be the Granite City Round Robin on April 21-22 featuring Belleville, Alton, Normal and Glenbrook North.

The first Southwestern Conference game is April 6 when Alton visits Granite City. The SWC will be a "dogfight" this year, according to Stegemeier.

Team of the decade? Tigers by a long shot

LaPhonso Ellis and the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame went down to defeat to Alton Mouning and the Georgetown Hoyas in the second round of the NCAA Tournament on Sunday.

It was the same outcome as when the two met in high school basketball in 1974, 1974, 1982 and 1983. And it goes to show that as great a player as Ellis is, his presence doesn't guarantee victory. On the other hand, Ellis' absence doesn't automatically mean failure.

The Phonz's old high school team, the East St. Louis Lincoln Tigers, proved that in exhilarating fashion last weekend at the Class AA state tournament in Champaign, the final event of the winter sports season. The Tigers staked their claim — without a doubt — as the high school basketball team of the decade in Illinois when Vincent Jackson's 18-footer from the top expired in the third overtime.

The Tigers pulled out a 59-57 win over top-ranked and previously unbeaten Central in the state title game. The numbers are these: It was the Tigers' 10th straight state title, an unprecedented accomplishment in the 82-year history of the Illinois state tournament. It was Lincoln's fourth title of the decade (they also won in 1962), a feat never before accomplished. In fact, only Stephen Decatur (1931, 1936, 1945 and 1962), Lawrenceville (1972, 1974, 1982 and 1983) and Mt. Vernon (1920, 1940 and 1954) have four state titles over the years.

Lawrenceville's Ron Felling (now Bob Knight's assistant) is the only coach besides Benjie Lewis to win four titles. He did it in Class A over a span of 12 years. Lewis has done it in Class AA in a span of just eight years, all in the same decade. Before this year, the Tigers were the only Class AA team ever to win two in a row and only the sixth team ever.

This year's marked Lincoln's fifth appearance in Champaign in this decade, and the Tigers advanced to the Super-Sectional seven times. They have only lost one game on the Assembly Hall

"Bellevue West has to be the favorite going in," he said. "They have had two good sophomore teams back to back, and those players are juniors and seniors now. Bellevue East has a great program, so they're always tough. East St. Louis lost their good pitcher (Terry Westfield) but they have a good lefthander (Pat Baker) who shut us out last year. Alton's program has improved since Scott Posey took over and Joe Spurgeon at Collinsville is a good man. He's the new coach this year, but he has been there and knows the kids."

Edwardsville, which finished third in the state last year, figures to be among the area's best again with a tough righty-lefty mound combination of Adam Lynn and Tom Price, who were a combined 16-3 for the 31-8 Tigers in 1988. The Warriors and Tigers won't meet this year, however. Stegemeier crossed them off the schedule because he was fed up with the constant war of words with flamboyant Edwardsville coach Tom Price, who criticized the Warrior program publicly last season.

"I don't think we need to put our kids through that," Stegemeier said. "If he has some problems with us, he should come to me about them, not talk about it in the newspaper. We would love to play them in the regional, though, because that probably means he's playing for the championship."

"If we get pitching and get some confidence in our defense, we have the potential on paper to be competitive with most teams."

Mueller (catcher, outfield), Chris Mance (infield) and Jeff Thompson (catcher, infield and outfield).

"Pitching is the secret to our success," Stegemeier said. "And our seniors need to mature and come through. We have some good juniors, but we don't have the numbers."

Outside of Bartling, the team is relatively healthy. Kohler is coming off ankle and foot injuries last year and here are a few more arms. But Begando is set to throw the first pitch Saturday.

"We may struggle early, but we're good enough to be competitive," Stegemeier said.

floor, a 55-47 loss to Springfield Luper in the 1983 quarterfinals.

Although Ellis was Lincoln's most dominant player of the decade, it should be pointed out the Tigers have won as many state titles without him as with him, winning once before his arrival and once after his departure.

Jackson became the first player in state history to play for three state champions, so it was fitting that he nailed the shot to clinch the crown. Jackson is still one behind Billy Owens, now a freshman at Syracuse. Owens won four state titles at Carleisle (Pa.) High School while playing for Dave Lebo. Lebo's son Jeff was a star of the first of those four teams and is now a senior guard at North Carolina.

Now comes the scary part.

The team of the '90s isn't a bad bet to get the '90s off to a roaring start, even if Lewis decides to retire. Cuzzo Martin is the team's best all-around player, a 6-4 all-state forward, and is just a junior this season. Chris McKinney, a 6-3 guard, will also be back.

The Tigers will lose Jackson, point guard Rico Sylvester, center Ron Willis and forward Sharif Ford, whose last-second shot gave the Tigers a thrilling 72-70 win over Aurora East in the state quarterfinals. But it's obvious from the numbers above that the talent pipeline at Lincoln is long and deep, much like soccer in Granite City, so Martin and McKinney figure to have a strong supporting cast.

There is also the possibility that a couple of East St. Louis Assumption's talented underclassmen could become Tigers next year in the wake of Assumption's closing at the end of this school year. Ronald Scott, a 6-5 musclemen forward, and 6-6 Artugas Williams have already enrolled at Lincoln and the Tigers are after 6-7 center Ian Stanback, one of the area's premier players.
